Introduction

Thank you for choosing Vello.

Congratulations on the purchase of your Vello Screen Protector Ultra. This screen protector is designed for long-term use to protect your camera's LCD from scratches, dust, smears, and even impact. It adheres to the LCD without leaving behind any sticky residue, and it's rigid, so it's easy to apply without trapping any air bubbles underneath. The Vello Screen Protector Ultra is made from ultra-clear, UV-protective Japanese optical glass that won't affect the LCD's image quality—in fact, you can barely tell it's there!

Please read these instructions carefully before applying your Vello Screen Protector Ultra.

1. Remove any films or other intervening substances from your camera's LCD.

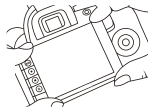

2. Clean the LCD with the wet wipe and then wipe it dry with the microfiber cleaning cloth.

3. Peel off the backing from the cleaning tape and use it to wipe away any remaining dust from your camera's LCD.

4. Peel off tape A from the screen protector. Be careful not to get any fingerprints on this side of the screen protector.

5. Make sure your camera is on a stable surface, and align the screen protector with your camera's LCD.

6. Press down firmly on the center of the screen protector and push outwards to apply.

7. Use the plastic applicator to smooth out any air bubbles by pushing them out to the edge of the screen protector.

8. Peel off tape B from the screen protector.
